Course Description

This hands-on laboratory and lecture course covers a variety of topics to increase your understanding of PAC's MultiTek Elemental Analyzer. You will receive presentations for theory and component identification, mixed with practical hands-on training using the MultiTek instrument in our laboratory. Also covered will be the software for user interface, calibration, maintenance, and troubleshooting for common problems. Customized applications or specific peripheral combinations can also be accommodated upon request. These courses are conducted by certified skilled PAC technicians who have real world MultiTek Elemental Analyzer applications experience, much of which has been gained by visiting our customer base. You will also have access to the PAC applications and engineering teams for specific discussions and forums regarding your unique situations.
